THE REPEAL DEBATE. WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The debate on the repeal bill has reached a point where the people are beginning to expect some-thing to be done. Mr. Voorhees, chairman of the finance committee, said that he pur-posed that a vote should be reached within two weeks. After that, if the speechtwo weeks. After that, if the speechmaking were continued, it would indicate a purpose to filibuster, and he did not believe that tactics for delay could be long pursued, nor did he think there would be any disposition among the opponents of repeal, aside possibly from the senators of the silver producing states, to unnecessarily consume the time of the senate, and these senators could not expect to continue the contest long without the assistance of the senators from the other sections of the country. Replying to a question as to how he expected to bring the matter to a close, Mr. Voorhees said that with the legitimate speech-making out of the way,
the question would soon resolve itself into one of physical endurance, and he expected soon to ask the senate to hold longer daily sessions, and indeed to continue them into night. He thought that this course would be justified after this week, and he would make a move in this direction, and with this specific end in view, within the next three or four days.

NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—The market today was one of the dullest on the stock exchange in many weeks, sales of only four stocks exceeding 10,000 shares. The market was almost entirely in the hands market was almost entirely in the hands of the professionals, the outside buying being on a very small scale. Among the speculative infinences at work were the disagreement between the Distilling company and the Distributing company, Boston's selling of Unior. Pacific, on the belief that the stock of the late F. L. Ames would be put on the market, and the report that the June statement of the Union Pacific, to be given out tomorrow, would make a bad showing. So sluggish was the trading, however, that the declines effected on these unfavorable reports were not very ser'ous. During the afternoon, upon very light trading, prices reacted. The final dealings were weak, although they showed a recovery just at the close.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., Sept. 14-The Cherokee strip boomers have only forty hours to wait before the strip will be theirs. The time is all too long for those who have secured certificates of registration and are anxious for the race; but for those who are still awaiting an oppor tunity to register it is all too short. Las night the situation, from the point of view of the unregistered boomers, was weil nigh hopeless. There were fully 15,000 of them, with additions being made to their ranks every hour, and they were being registered at the rate of about 8,000 a day. Added to their anxiety on this core came a hot wave unprecedented in this season of the year, and made existence for the boomers miserable. Today the situation looked more hopeful. Additional facilities for registration have been proaun, dust and thirst. Can you not cause the booth to be removed to this city and put on a larger force of clerks, or abandon registration at once? For the honor and weifare of the administration we beg you to take immediate action. Humanity de-mands it."

This was signed by twenty correspondents of leading Democratic and Republican papers.

Last night the Willow Springs Town company held an election for officers here. This is the first town in the strip to organize in this manner, and on Saturday when the people get there the town will be regularly organized and will be ready to do business as such. All business men who are going to open stores and banks and all purchasers of resident lots were present. The executive officer will be called "president."

Chief Bushyhead placed his town of Kildare on the market last night and sold his first lot at $450. The Cherokees will commence to advertise largely and expect to have a large permanent population established in their eighth town by Saturday night. This system of building towns in a new country is entirely new and will do away with the rushing, fighting and contesting which characterized the establishment of the new towns in Oklahoms.

Expects from the booths this morning

Reports from the booths this morning were to the effect that several strippers were prostrated during the night. Some of them are at farm houses near the booths. Physicians went out this morning to care for them.

Physicians went out this morning to care for them.

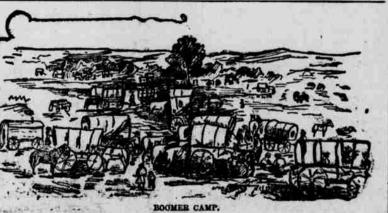

Last night's Santa Fe train arrived in five sections. Nearly all the passengers stopped off here. Many were obliged to sleep in the streets, not being able to secure accommodations. This morning crowded trains came in over all the lines. It is no exaggeration to state that fully 40,000 strangers are within and about the town. At the present rate of progression fully one-third will not be able to register, and through no fault of their own.

The crowd at the booths this morning was larger than ever. As the day progressed the wind got hotter, and bid fair to rival that of yesterday.

Dr. Gallagher of the interior department, having charge of the registration booths, received a telegram from Secretary Hoke Smith today, authorizing him to take all steps necessary to facilitate registration and to reuder the registration as convenient and comfortable as possible. Dr. Gallagher established two booths in the city this evening and registration will be commenced at them tomorrow morning. In the meantime registration at all the booths south of here will continue until the flues are exhausted. Registration will be kept up all night if necessary. When the last man in line receives his certificate the booths will be removed to town, where Wided, the hot weather has moderated a few degrees, and the boomers now have some little excuse for living. They have become convinced, however, that the path of the homeseeker is not altogether a rosy one, and every man and woman who secures a claim next Saturday will have earned it, in physical suffering and en deavor and loss of peace of mind.

The weather today, while it was very hot, was much more agreeable than on yesterday. The thermometer registered 97 degrees at noon, but the hot wind which continued from yesterday died down, and in its place came a breeze from the north-west, which was comparatively refreshing. The rumpr that the owners of fast horses had plotted to burn the railway bridges in the strip, with the object of handicapping those who propose to make the race on Saturday in excursion trains, caused much excitement among all classes. It is believed that the patrol of the troops established about the border is sufficient to prevent the entrance of any and all unauthorized persons, and that the plot, if one reality exists, can be easily frustrated.

ARKANSAS CITY, Sept. 14.—The severe conditions that obtained yesterday, causing bousands of homeseekers so much suffering, were present today. The sun was pouring down biazing heat, the hot wind continued and the lack of water and of shelter at the registration booths was today causing increased sickness and prostration. Yesterday was the hottest day in this part of the country in many years. In the shade, away from the wind, the mercury registered 103 degrees. The suffering in the line yesterday was ointense and the registration progressed as allowly that a good deal of riotous talk was indulged in by the boomers at the booths and in the town. Dr. Gallagher, who has charge of the registration, engaged six more clerks to begin the registering this morning, who had been there since Monday evening, and they were exhausted. Hundreds of men in line are afflicted with throat and ling troubles, caused by breathing the dustiaden air, and many were compelled to drop out and come to town for medical attention.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 14.—The galleries of the house were pretty well filled this morning in anticipation of the preliminary skirmish over the Tucker bill for the re-peal of the federal election laws. This bill is debate to stir partisan rancor to its lowest depths. The fact that the president is supposed to be opposed to its con-sideration at this time increased the interest with which the first passage-at-arms

The fight began before the chaplan's voice had died out. Strange to say, Mr., Burrows, who divides with Mr. Reed the leadership of the Republican side, surprised the house by beginning at a jump a sort of covert fillibustering tactics, to prevent the reporting of the bill to the house. He asked unanimous concent that the call of committees for reports be dispensed with. Mr. Tucker, author of the bill, as well as other Democratic members, who are interested in wiping the federal election laws out, pricked up their cars.

"I object," anouted Mr. Tucker.

Mr. Burrows then moved that the call be dispensed with.

It being evident that Mr. Burrows intended to get a shew of hands, Mr. Tucker called for the yeas and nays.

It was apparent as the roil call proceeded that the Republicans were resolute, and that the day's fight was not simply to be a brush. They remained in their seats, refusing to vote, in order to break a quorum, Quite a number of the administration Democrats reflected the White House opposition to the present consideration of the bill and joined with their Republican collesques acrous the sisle and also refused to answer to their names.

When the speaker announced the result of the vote—yeas, 4 nays, 100—the point of no quorum was made, whereupon a call of the house was ordered. The call of the house was ordered. The call of the house developed the presence of 160 members. The doors were ordered closed and the messengers of the argeant-at-arms were sent to bring in the absentees. The house had settled down to a long hand-to-hand contest.
